Seems Microsoft was able to con you guys into thinking this was a punishment when it is win-win for Microsoft. Win now by getting me/taxes to pay for training and win in 5 yrs when there are fewer other choices in the market and taxes pay again.

The assumption that: 'All children will need to learn Microsoft anyway' is incorrect. That they should be a monopoly because they already are, seems like gvmt is giving up to Microsoft, and letting Microsoft break another law to gain more market share.

Microsoft broke the law, does that matter?
